Air-peeled garlic since 1980. No chopping. No peeling. No mess.

1. Company Overview

Garliclo, also known as Nader Garlic, is a Lebanese restaurant supply business based in Sin El Fil (Metn), led by Joseph Nader and part of a family name in garlic since 1980. It specializes in one product: air-peeled garlic. We supply clean, whole, ready-to-cook garlic cloves to restaurants, industrial kitchens, and butcheries. Our promise: you don't peel, we peel for you. No chopping. No peeling. No mess.

2. Mission & Vision

Mission. To save Lebanese kitchens hours of tedious peeling every week, while keeping garlic quality, hygiene, and taste consistent, at honest and transparent prices.

Vision. To become the first name Lebanese kitchens think of for ready-to-use garlic, and to grow from peeled cloves into a full range of convenient garlic products.

4. How Air Peeling Works

1. Selection	We source firm, mature Chinese-variety garlic bulbs and sort out damaged or sprouting heads.
2. Breaking	Bulbs are gently broken into individual cloves.
3. Air peeling	Bursts of compressed air lift the skin off each clove: no knives, no soaking, no chemicals, no added water.
4. Inspection	Cloves are checked by hand; bruised or imperfect cloves are removed.
5. Trimming	For our trimmed range, the hard root end is cut off so the clove is 100% usable.
6. Packing	Cloves are packed hygienically and kept cold until delivery.

5. Who We Serve

10. Frequently Asked Questions

Q. What is the difference between trimmed and untrimmed?

Trimmed (muqamma') cloves have the hard root end cut off, so they are ready to use with zero waste. Untrimmed cloves still have the root end and cost a little less.

Q. What is the difference between your own garlic and the imported options?

Products 1 and 2 are air-peeled by Garliclo, so they are fresher and firmer. Products 3 and 4 are peeled in China and imported, which makes them more affordable.

Q. Do you use chemicals or water to peel?

No. Our own line peels with compressed air only.

Q. Do you sell garlic paste, toum, or whole garlic bulbs?

Not at the moment. Our current range is peeled garlic cloves only, but we love hearing what customers would like next.

Q. Where do you deliver?

Along the coast from Beirut to Batroun, including Metn, Jounieh and Jbeil. Other areas across Lebanon can be arranged; contact the team to check.

Q. Is there a minimum order or a delivery fee?

These depend on the area and quantity, so the team confirms them with each customer.
